

What is “The Joint Commission” (TJC)?

The Joint Commission (formerly JCAHO) is an organization that accredits medical institutions across North America. Their accreditation assists patients and insurers using standard measures of effectiveness.